VEGGIE GARDENERS on the go! Montgomery County Master

Gardeners harvest the 2009 crop at our demonstration gardens. Attached (above) are two photos and the corresponding captions (below) that we hope you can use this season.

PHOTO CAPTION 1--#7421 (below): You too can grow vegetables. Millicent Lawrence, Wheaton, is a volunteer with the Master Gardeners, Montgomery County Extension Service. She works at its open-to-the-public, Vegetable Demonstration Garden in Derwood, Md. She is weighing some of the dozens of different vegetables raised there this summer. It's not too late for even novice gardeners to start growing some vegetables this summer or planning for a fall garden. See <http://growit.umd.edu/> for growing tips for your garden and patio container, or call the Master Gardener Hotline, 301-590-9650. Also, visit our Montgomery County Fair Demo Garden! (Photo courtesy of Barbara Knapp.)

Master Gardeners of Montgomery County, Md., are 250 volunteers trained by the University of Maryland/ Montgomery County Extension Service. The organization's free programs educate residents about environmentally sound horticultural practices that build healthy landscapes. Programs include a "Hotline" consultation by phone (301-590-9650) or email mgmont@umd.edu; clinics to identify gardeners' plant and tree problems; therapeutic horticulture; demonstration gardens; speakers bureau; and design services for government and non-profit organizations. An intensive 75-hour training program in February is available for those who want to become Master Gardeners.
